

Where I Want to Live

No one really knows for sure so we all just have to rely on what we believe. I believe that this is what I would hope that the other side resembles.

Never mind what name it goes by
I'm just glad there's such a place
That you can't buy your way into
But you're free to go by grace
A sweet home where the love light shines
And every night each orphan child
Sleeps deep within their mama's arms
While she sings a lullaby
That's where I want to live

Where lonesome is a thing unknown
And goodbye a word untold
Where every soul has someone
And every hand a hand to hold
Where everyone imprisoned
Sees the bars swing open wide
As they walk free into forever
With their loved ones by their side
That's where I want to live
When I die

Now I promise you that I know
There ain't no way I deserve it
But I promise you that right up to my last day
I'll be working
Working for that promise that I've heard of
All my life
That's where I want to live
When I die

Where nothing good's forgotten
Where nothing bad survives
Where all is all forgiven
Forever and all time
That's where I want to live

Never mind what name it goes by
I'm just glad there's such a place
That you can't buy your way into
But you're free to go by grace

Tony Arata Music (ASCAP)